

JORDAN PARKER, M.A. Regional Planner

Jordan Parker joined the South Florida Regional Planning Council (SFRPC) team in March of 2026 as a Regional Planner. Jordan's academic accomplishments include a Bachelor's degree in Political Science and Government and a Master of Arts in Public Policy, with a concentration in Social Policy and Political Philosophy, from George Washington University.

In his previous positions at the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, Jordan developed a strong background in corporate research, data collection, statistical analysis, database management, and policy analysis. Jordan's past experience in government affairs, grant writing, and copy editing contributed to a diverse skill set in research, writing, and project coordination.

At the SFRPC, Jordan uses machine learning, data analytics, and policy analysis to support the Council's regional planning efforts. Jordan is committed to using data-informed approaches to help strengthen communities across South Florida.

If you have any questions about a project or are interested in collaborating with the SFRPC, you can reach Jordan Parker at jparker@sfrpc.com.