

NICK BOURDON

Co-Founder, Reef Arches

Coastal erosion is a massive problem for waterfront communities. That's why Nicholas Bourdon cofounded Reef Arches, a climate-tech startup creating ton-sized honeycomb structures that can be installed off coastlines to protect them from erosion. Made from 70% sand, they also help foster biodiversity. The company's technology is twice-patented.